ULM GOING TO ASK $25,000 DAMAGES

Manager Ulm Declares Building is Not Closed, Regardless of Order

FORGY AND BISHOP AT WORK ON CASE

The amount of damages that N. A. Ulm is going to sue the five city trustees for is $25,000. The complaint is practically complete, and Ulm's attorneys, H. J. Forgy and Clyde Bishop, expect to file it next Monday.

In the meantime Ulm declares emphatically that the Grand Opera House is perfectly safe. He states that the opera house is not closed, that he is not following and will not follow the order served upon his representatives a week ago today while he was in San Francisco.

"The Grand Opera House has been condemned by the five trustees," said Ulm, "but they were wrong, absolutely wrong. The house is one of the safest buildings in Santa Ana. I have a show dated for July 22. It is 'Everywoman,' and that production will be at the Grand Opera House. That is my opinion of the safety of that house, and if it were not safe I would be the very first to ask that it be made safe."

There have been various reports on the street as to the amount of damages Ulm would ask from the five trustees, Frank E. George McPhee, O. B. Alderman, Walter Greenleaf and W. L. Grubb, who will be sued personally. This afternoon Ulm stated that he would ask for $25,000. Suit will be on the ground that the order authorized by the trustees has injured the reputation of his house as to safety. Rush & Davis of Los Angeles will be associated with Scarborough & Forgy and Clyde Bishop for the plaintiff.

Rockhill against E. T. Parker and George L. Cosart, involving the quieting of title to a large piece of land in Imperial county.

The plaintiff in this suit is a sister of the defendant, E. T. Parker, and the title concerned land taken up by Joel Parker many years ago. Parker is well known at Orange, where for years he was in the packing-house business. He and his son went to Coachella and planted a large tract to oranges. Last winter the orchard froze to the ground. Cosart, a defendant, worked for Parker at Orange. In the trial in the Imperial county court Parker got judgment. Under the ruling in the appellate court a new trial is ordered.

Many times father is the object of pranks and jokes that are played by the young folks of the family, while mother is innocently brought into the youngsters' plans, so it is the case of "Putting It Over on Papa," one of Pathe's most laughable comedies at the Bell Theatre tonight and Sunday.

The picture feature, a two reel special, is one of unusual interest, abounding in many exciting scenes, and wonderful settings of the great north wood country. "Into the North Wood Camp" will interest all. Harris and West, the dancing boys, will be seen at their best. The program at the Bell is one good thing show. Coming for three nights beginning Monday, June 23rd, the only authentic reel of moving pictures of the Long Beach Auditorium disaster and approved by the Long Beach city officials.

TRADE OF THE UNITED STATES WITH ITS NON-CONTIGUOUS TERRITORIES

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20.—According to the official figures of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, the total value of the shipments from the United States to all its non-contiguous territories (including in this term Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands, Guam, and Tutuila) is, for the ten months ended with April, 1913, $99,186,993, against $85,979,941 in the corresponding months of last year; while, the value of the shipments to the United States from the non-contiguous territories in the ten months ended with April, 1913, amounted to $191,315,809, against $112,062,179 in the same months of last year. From these figures it is estimated that shipments from the United States to its non-contiguous territories will show a larger total in 1913 than ever before, aggregating approximately $119 million dollars, as against 106 million in 1912, 83 million in 1910, and 36 1/2 millions in 1907; also that shipments from the non-contiguous territories to the United States will show a slightly lower total in 1913 than in 1912, the high-record year, or approximately 135 million dollars, against 143 million in 1912, 108 million in 1910, and 52 million in 1907. Thus the shipments from the non-contiguous territories to the United States have a little more than doubled in the last ten years, while shipments from the United States to the territories in question dropped in the same period. The fall in 1913 of about 8 million dollars in the value of merchandise shipped from the non-contiguous territories to the United States is due in part to a reduction in the quantity of sugar shipped from Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands, and also to a reduction in the price of the sugar thus shipped. The quantity of sugar shipped from the Philippine Islands to the United States in the ten months ended with and Coming—Why? How? When?" This lecture is one of a series that follow as sequels to Pastor Russell's lecture of last Sunday. Mr. Sexton sets forth his views in a unique and forceful manner.

Will Christ Ever Come Again?
—Toppling tombstones, falling mountains, opening graves, wailing maniacs, fiery heavens, and a burning earth have been so closely associated with the Lord's second coming, that many Christian people are dreading the event instead of praying for it as instructed in the Bible.

What is the manner of His second coming? Will He ever come again in the flesh? Will this earth ever be totally destroyed? Why should the Lord come again, and what the benefit of His coming? Is it a time to be dreaded? These and many other important questions will be definitely answered from the Scriptures, Sunday at 10 a. m., at the Bell Theater, by Pastor E. D. Sexton, a noted Bible lecturer, now touring the United States and Canada. He has made "The Second Coming of Christ" his special subject of study and is said to be familiar with everything in the scriptures on this theme. No fanciful delusions, no rash conclusions, but straight practical truths from the Bible on the basis of his argument. He speaks from an unsectarian standpoint. He makes no charge for services. THE POLICY OF FRANKNESS

Much was said at the gathering of advertising men at Baltimore, about truth in advertising. This is a principle that this newspaper has always emphasized. It may say something more about it soon. It is a principle that is pervading all business life and civic action.

A slump of speculative discouragement followed the decree in the Minnesota railroad rate cases. Railroad men complain bitterly of the hostility of the public. Business men call for more co-operation, in which the public shall allow the railroads to make a fair dividend, and the railroads shall give the best possible service at moderate charges, and all shall pull together to boost the community.

The same policy of frankness that the advertising writers have been urging, which leads the modern business man to tell just what his goods are, will help remove anti-corporation hostility.

The old motto used to be, in the language of the mining country, "Every man for himself and hold your cards close to your belly." Now a good many people have become convinced that some games—especially those of the business world and public service—can best be played with the cards down on the table.

When a railroad bought up a competitor, the reason formerly assigned was that the property was wanted as a "feeder." If this was not the real reason, irritation was created. When you are dealing with a man who fails to give you the real reason for his action, you view all his acts with suspicion. The same principle prevails in the dealing between the public and the roads.

The railroad magnate who opens his accounts to the public, who assigns the real reason for his acts, and the public official or political leader or business man who pursues a like course, is going to dissipate existing hostility and prevalent suspicion and criticism. It is only fair to say that frankness is much more in evidence than it was. The railroads and business men and beneficent politicians are suffering now for the sins of the past more than from those of the present.

PHILAN VERSUS BELL

The Philan building wing of the California Democracy openly declare that the three Democratic congressmen from this state—Baker, Church and Kettner—have demonstrated that they are pronounced "reactionaries" and that efforts will be made next year to deny them party nominations.

Thomas Griffin of Modesto, according to present plans, will undertake the slaughter of Congressman Church.

The trio of representatives at Washington has, in all patronage matters, given support to the cause of Theodore Bell, the Philanites complain, both to help restore him as a Democratic leader and to give him aid for his race for the United States senatorship next year.

James D. Philan is, of course, the choice of the Philan wing for the senatorship.

COLLEGE DEGREES

Americans are ostensibly a plain, democratic people. By principle they are supposed to despise titles and social tinsel. Yet the college degree custom indicates a very distinct hankering after social tags.

Originally academic degrees were a dependable certificate, at least that a man had worked four years in an atmosphere of cultivation and learning. Now a degree may mean simply that a fellow went to college to have four years' fun, hiring a coach to do the thinking end of the game. Or in some "colleges," the attainment represented by the certificate hung on his parlor wall may signify no more than it is meant by membership in the sophomore class of the stronger institutions.

One "university" advertised to confer honorary degrees on any one sending $10. The entire plant of this university consisted of an office in a city building, with desks, two chairs, and letter press. There is one really truly university that confers a degree on any one who will read eight books. Examinations must be considered cumbersome and antiquated, as the applicant's word is taken for the required reading. The sum of $50 has to be paid on the installment plan. A year later, by paying $40 more, it is possible to get a Master of Arts degree.

The end of every college year brings an increasing demand for the abolition of academic degrees in democratic

SPECIAL WASHINGTON LETTER

By Burton K. Standish.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The senate is getting the first taste of scientific management in politics. The Democratic majority is applying the new efficiency methods to smooth out the way for the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill.

In the first place, the Democrats now have a "whip," James Hamilton Lewis, Senator from Illinois. Nobody ever heard of a "Whip" in the senate before. It was an outgrowth of unwieldy majorities in the house, where the speaker used to appoint an "assistant floor leader" whose job was to hurry the "boys" on to the floor at times when the party needed their votes. "Jim" Watson of Indiana, when he was "whip" made the job a real one. Watson was renowned as never having lost a vote while he was in congress. That was in the old Cannon days. Watson used to stand at the entrance to the house, and as the members trooped in would say "vote yes" or "vote no" and the statement would be answered to their names. A majority of 'em didn't know what they were voting on, but they were certain that Jim Watson always had the right dope and they couldn't be recorded against their party.

Lewis' appointment is a further illustration of the Democratic "scientific management" program for the senate. In businesslike manner the new majority has already done away with the furnishing of mineral water to colonists; discharged all the massagers, bath attendants and servants in the fine senate bath room; cut down on the number of clerks and "speeded" up routine of senate procedure by change in the rules. It will be Lewis' duty to "speed up" the work on the senate floor.

It is quite a tribute to the Illinois senator that he should be chosen for this difficult post. Moreover his appointment is another breaking of precedents. Lewis came to the senate on March 4 and three months later he was made "assistant majority leader." In the old days it took ten years for a senator to "arrive" in the upper house. Lewis' custom prescribed that during the new senator's first year of office, he shouldn't open his mouth in debate. Lewis, however, has impressed his colleagues in the senate inside of three months that he is a lawyer of remarkable attainments, a speaker of polish and charm, and one who has a most persuasive manner.

President Wilson is understood fully to approve of the plan to reduce control of the senate floor by the Democrats to a science. While granting the minority a full exercise of its right of debate, it is said to be the administration view that henceforth the majority must hold the discussion down as closely as possible to actual business.

"Harry,"—that's his name, and he's probably the greatest, unthinking, always smiling, politest, most useful Ethiopian in captivity today. For some seventeen years he has stood guard over the entrance to the office of the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, shooting off unbecomingly with bland smiles, and with pig-headed silence, when that smile faded.

"Harry" sits all day, long outside Chairman Underwood's office. Not even an active fly could stir him. He never reads, or does anything. He just sits.—That's his job. He says a hundred times a day, "No sah; No sah. He's not in sah. I'm sorry sah. Yes sah—Thank you, sah."

"I've got to be polite to 'em," he explained. "I've got to treat 'em good, and dey feel good. If I'm rough, dey get troublefome," which shows "Harry" is a philosopher anyhow. "Harry" was discovered by Representative Dingley and was with him until that statesman died. Then he acted as door keeper for Seneca Payne of New York, when he was chairman of the Ways and Means committee. When Representative Oscar Underwood came on the job he "inherited" Harry. Oh yes, his last name? Why, or—let's see. Oh no one knows him by his last name, so what's the use.

Congressman S. F. Prouty of Des Moines, has at last had his revenge on corporations operating under false pretenses. Once when he was just getting to be well known out in Des Moines, his home ballclub, a certain band of promoters slipped over a nice little trick on him, and since then he's been on the warpath. His recent bill now awaiting passage and which he says will absolutely prevent the formation of fraudulently operated insurance companies, is his revenge.

Prouty in his rising days bought some stock in a company that promised big returns. He was well known throughout the community, and he was flattered when he was elected to an office in the concern. Two friends of his—working girls—who had saved a few thousand dollars invested all their savings in the concern on the strength of his name. These girls lost every cent they put in it. Then they told Prouty about it. Prouty became suspicious and began an investigation resulting in his visiting the office of the president of the concern and demanding that he make him out a check for the total amount of the girls' stock purchases. "I'll send you a check for every cent I've drawn for salary and dividends," he said. "And I'll turn in my stock." He got the check after a hammer and tongs argument, and returned his stock and the money he had received. Incidentally he announced that he had withdrawn from the company. Two weeks later it failed. "I've been on the warpath ever since," he said. "Waiting to get just such concerns."

DRAMA ABROAD AND AT HOME

By Beau Rialto

NEW YORK, June 21.—A vivid exception to the rule that a prophet is without honor save in his own country is to be found in Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, the English actor who was recently knighted by King George V for his dramatic achievements. When he closed his season the other night preparatory to coming to America, he said it was his last performance in England for all time, and he got a farewell ovation that would turn the heads of most people. It was a rousing affair that even outdid New York's famous good-byes to Madame Sarah Bernhardt. As the veteran actor spoke his last lines and the curtain started slowly downward the 7,000 people that packed the theater applauded deafeningly and called on him for a speech. Then when he did appear it was fifteen minutes before he could make himself heard. Men and women stood in their chairs waving handkerchiefs, laughing and crying hysterically. Ushers overwhelmed the stage with a veritable avalanche of flowers and altogether it was a very un-British demonstration.

For once Forbes-Robertson's visibility shined as brightly as his and he could not keep down the emotion that the spontaneous outburst brought to him. He essayed a humorous speech but it was too much for him. Instead, he gave a few reminiscences of his forty years on the English stage, telling how he first played Hamlet when a boy in his father's home. His sister doubled as Ophelia and the first Grave Digger, and when the girl dug her own grave in the family living room, it was too much for the audience and they giggled. The first time he attended Hamlet in a theater, he said, he made up too old for the part and a scene shifter said: "Oh Bill, 'ere come the ghost of 'Anlet's father'."

But to make a long story short, the demonstration was proof positive of the fact that one of the world's greatest actors has won the highest honor of fame in his own country. Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson does not have to come to America either for recognition or dollars. With his pretty young wife, Gertrude Elliott, sister of Max Elliott Forbes-Robertson, he will begin his American season in October, and he says positively that it will be his last acting. He has been on the stage for forty years and finally won the recognition of the King. Unwilling to use his title as an advertisement in his work, the great actor will retire, he says.

It is doubtful if Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson will be billed as such on his American tour. He has not made a positive statement but has intimated that he desires his title not to be desirable. These old practices have a certain element of poetry and romance that one hates to let go. But at least, some academic authority ought to get up a "White List," of institutions which confer degrees based on merit.

The men most worthy of these literary laurels are the most apt to hide them out of sight.

Marrying Without Being in Love

In the June Woman's Home Companion Mary Heaton Vorse writes a story in which one of her characters, Helen Payne, a New England girl eighteen years old, becomes engaged only to find that she does not love the man she has promised to marry. On the general subject of breaking marriage promises, according to the old New England manner, Mrs. Vorse goes on:

"She was going to offer herself, a little white offering, before the altar of the fetish which decrees that we shall keep our promises. Herding her to this doom were all the cruel things which we teach young girls. In New England in my day we did not joke about engagements. In her innocence, having given her lover her mouth to be kissed and her hand to be held and having promised to be his, she had definitely decided that in the sight of God she was his."

"I suppose that had I made up my mind to do what Ellen did at that age, I would have gone through to the iniquitous end, but my eyes and my quieted rebellious spirit with sophistries, I would have gone according to whichever part of the strange anomalous teaching which we give young girls I believed in most. Had I believed most that it is the crime to marry without love, I would have frankly made up my mind to break the engagement, but had I believed that one may love but once and that an engagement is a marriage of the spirit, and that in giving this I had given so much to one man that I had nothing left for any other—it is strange, but this is what I believed, that I should have traveled that terrible road."

Eligible

Alfred Noyes, the English poet, who alone among the entire poet tribe makes a living out of poetry, said at a dinner in New York:

"I wish it to be understood that my poems are not putting me in the Carnegie or Rockefeller class."

"While my poems afford me a competence, I am still hit hard by the story of Mrs. Blanco."

"Who is that young man who is paying you such marked attention?" said Mrs. Blanco, a society leader, asked her daughter.

"He's a poet, mother," the young girl replied.

"Gracious!" cried the mother. "And can you, a millionaire's daughter, seriously contemplate throwing yourself away on a starveling poet?"

"Oh," said the young girl, "you don't understand. He isn't an ordinary poet. He writes poetical advertisements."

"My darling," said the mother, "call him up at once. I'll ask him to our weekend house party."

Our Wonderful Energy

Andre de Fouquieres, whom society lionized during the New York season, praised, on his departure for Paris, the wonderful energy of the American business man.

"I once asked an American business man," he said, "do you know what leisure means?"

"Why, to be sure, I do," the business man replied. "Leisure is spare time that can be devoted to some fresh job of work."

Home for Sale

Have sold the cottage on West Second street, and want to sell my home place, 2220 North Main.

Good eight room house, porches, etc., roomy grounds, 30 ft. frontage, 280 ft. deep. Lots of fruit, ornamental trees and shrubbery.

I also want to sell a mighty good foothill ranch in the Villa Park forestless section, 77 acres, part of it citrus land with ample water rights, balance of land foothill pasture, good house, barn, etc., $20,000. Might take some trade.

You'd better hurry. The P. E. will soon be building to Orange. The S. P. will undoubtedly soon electrify the belt line passing through Villa Park, the county building good roads, the Standard Oil Co. strike oil at Olive.

Some one will buy these properties or I may change my mind.

Not to Be Imitated

Discussing the new science of psychological salesmanship before the Y. M. C. A. of Duluth, Jerome S. McWade, a retired millionaire, said:

"Psychological salesmanship will take all due advantage of the buyer's vulnerable points, but it will never be dishonest. I cannot hold up as an example for you to follow Murtagh, the newsboy."

"The afternoon of the death of President Faure of France—that was a long time ago—Murtagh went yelling up and down Fifth avenue.

"Wuxtry! wuxtry! Full account of the death of our president!"

"A young woman bought a paper eagerly, but finding in it only a brief paragraph about the demise of Faure, she said:

"What do you mean, you bad little boy, by saying that President McKinley's dead?"

"Oh, didn't say McKinley, ma'am," said Murtagh. "Oh said our president. O'm a Frinchman!"

A LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

Humboldt County, the least developed in California, presents splendid opportunities to investors and homeseekers. Men and money are needed for dairying, small fruit growing, truck farming, general farming and apple raising. A country of wonderful resources and ideal climate into which the first railroad is now building. All inquiries promptly answered by the Humboldt Promotion and Development Committee, Eureka, Cal.

ECONOMICS PICNIC

Orange County Park Scene of Annual Outing of the Third Section

The Third Section of Ebell House-hold Economies held the annual picnic of the section at Orange County Park yesterday. Nearly all of the members were present and a gallant few of the husbands were also there.

After a very elaborate picnic dinner the election of officers was held with the following result: Mrs. C. S. Bennett, president; Mrs. F. L. Andrews, vice-president; Mrs. E. A. Stock-slager, press correspondent.

Mrs. A. J. Lawton, Ebell curator, was a guest of the Section and she gave a very excellent talk, telling how the members could aid in improving the Ebell Society in a social way by taking into the Ebell some of the good fellowship that prevails in the classes of the society.

A vote of thanks was given Mrs. George H. Dobson, who has served so well as leader for three years.

Dresser-Mann

This morning at 7 o'clock a quiet wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Mann, Miss Constance Mann and Ernest H. Dresser being the principals. Only the parents of the bride were present, and the lines of the simple marriage service were pronounced by Rev. Rufus S. Chase of the Episcopal Church.

The bride and groom left immediately on a brief wedding trip.

Lawyers to Speak

Tomorrow morning at the First Methodist Church during the Sunday School hour at that church, Attorneys S. M. Davis and Steele Finley will give talks during an "anti-cigarete" program to be rendered. Both of these gentlemen are known to be pleasing speakers and their talks are expected to be both valuable and interesting.

Birthday Dinner

Yesterday at noon the Day Nursery celebrated the fourth birthday of Kenneth Trice. Pink and white sweet peas were used in decorations. The little honoree's mother furnished the ice cream and cake, both being in pink and white. The cake was adorned with four little pink candles and Kenneth's name appeared on the frosting. When the candles were lighted Kenneth blew out one, and Ruby Asher, Honey Edstrum and Jimmie Corbet were the honoree's choice to blow out the other candles.

A "wonder ball" was one of the features of the happy afternoon that followed the birthday dinner at which fifteen children had been seated.

Pleasant Evening

A very pleasant evening was spent by the Intermediate Christian Endeavor with Rev. and Mrs. Wright in the Sunday school room of the Christian church Friday evening. After a short business session the young people thoroughly enjoyed the games interspersed with music and conversation.

During the evening light refreshments were served.

NEEDLEWORK PARTY

Mrs. Jas. S. Rice Hostess at Pretty Afternoon Function Where Music Was Feature

Mrs. James S. Rice was hostess yesterday at a most delightfully informal afternoon at her home in Tustin. Dainty bits of needlework furnished a pretense of work, and the busy hum of conversation among congenial friends made the hours of the beautiful June afternoon fly all too swiftly by.

There was music—there is always music at Mrs. Rice's. The hostess herself was graciously generous with her own beautiful voice and among other well-loved songs gave, at the unanimous request of her guests, "The Rosary."

Among others whose voices added to the afternoon's pleasure were Mrs. Ella Ballard Hanna of Los Angeles, Mrs. T. A. Winbiger, Miss Vernon Claytor of San Diego and Mr. Percy Rice, who gave two delightful baritone numbers. The singers were accompanied by Miss Helen Claytor of San Diego, and by Mrs. Alba J. Padgham, who also gave two exquisite piano numbers, "The Scarf Dance" and Mendelssohn's "Spring Song."

Miss Dorothy Hanna, the dainty young daughter of Mrs. Ella Hanna, added much to the afternoon's merriment by two most laughable little recitations, and in answer to numberless requests Mrs. Rice sweetly recited Kipling's "L'Envoi."

Late in the afternoon a delicious supper was served, a basket filled with lovely pink amaryllis, and decorated with a graceful bow of filmy pink tulle, forming the centerpiece.

An invitation to the Rice home is always considered in the nature of a treat and that yesterday will be one of the happiest memories of the many that include Mrs. Rice as hostess, was the universal comment of those who were so fortunate as to be her guests.

Moontlight Picnic

The Christian Endeavorers of the United Presbyterian church, to the number of thirty-five, went up to Orange County Park last evening, the trip being made in automobiles and carriages. The party arrived in the beautiful park in time to have a "weenie" and bean bake at 7 o'clock. Return was made at about 9 o'clock and the ride home by the lovely moonlight was one of the most delightful parts of the evening.

NEW THOUGHT LECTURE BY JOHN MILTON SCOTT

John Milton Scott will speak at the Unitarian Church on Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. He is editor of the Los Angeles New Thought News and he will lecture on "The Lost Chord of Christianity."

The public is invited by the church to hear this lecture. Special music has been arranged and Lloyd Sharp will sing a sacred solo. A poem by Mr. Scott follows under the title:

"A Human Face"

Thou needest, Lord, a human face To smile and make Thee known; O be in me a tenderness, That smiling face mine own.

Thou needest, Lord, a human tongue To say Thy truth divine; O be in me a holy thought, That truthful tongue be mine.

Thou needest, Lord, a human hand To bind man's aching wound; O be in me compassion sweet, That hand mine own be found.

Thou needest, Lord, a human life To live Thee out on earth; O be in me a beating heart, My life that holy worth.

To touch with life and love divine Whom evil so destroys And waken through the night of death Life's dawn of holy joys.

"Weed Jimpson must be doing well now. He must be getting on his feet at last," said the first man.

"Why do you think so?" said the second.

"Well," said the first, "Jimpson, you know, owes me money, and he dodges out of my way now instead of facing me in the bold way he used to."

IRVINE GATE IS SHUT DOWN

By contact With Other Irrigators Whole Stream Goes Down the Creek

Between Eighty-five and 100 Inches Added to the Santiago Ditches

ORANGE, June 21.—Under the contract between the Irvine Co. and the two water companies taking water out of the Santiago creek, the gate at the point where the Irvine Co. has been taking out its water was shut down yesterday, and now the entire flow of the creek is to be divided between the two water companies, the Serrano Water Co., which supplies the Villa Park side and the John T. Carpenter Water Co., which supplies the El Modena side. Under the contract, the Irvine Co. will get no more water from the creek during the dry months. Yesterday between eighty-five and 100 inches of water was cut out of the Irvine ditch and allowed to flow on down the creek. This flow comes as a relief to the two water companies, both of which have been using pumping plant water for a short time. With the spreading of the storm waters in the canyon the supply of these two water companies is greatly increased during the summer months over what used to be the flow.

IN THE JUSTICE COURT

SEPARATION DEEMED THE BEST JUDGMENT

There was a free-for-all at the Santa Fe section house because one man called another a disgraceful Billy-goat, which among the Mexicans is an insulting epithet almost without an equal. Because of that row Victor Candelaria and his wife and part of his family of nine children were in Justice Cox's Sonora court this morning on the complaint of Mrs. Petra Amecasion, who said they had scratched her on the neck.

After hearing the testimony, Judge Cox gave the couple suspended sentences and asked the section foreman to arrange to transfer Candelaria to some other section. The justice thought separation is badly needed between the Candelaria family and other families of the neighborhood.

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY EVENING, JUNE 21, 1913.

SITE IS SOUGHT FOR CITRUS STATION

Santa Ana One of Sections to Be Considered—$185,000
for Site and Buildings

That the citrus experiment station and graduate school of semi-tropic agriculture of the University of California, the first of its kind in the United States and one that will bring to the environs of Los Angeles the greatest collection of citrus and agricultural experts ever assembled in California for the study of an industry, will be established by Dr. Herbert John Webber, head of the school, in the section of the southland best suited to its purpose is the announcement made yesterday in Redlands by George F. Hunt, dean of the university.

According to the announcement of Dean Hunt, Dr. Webber, who is now in the east closing personal business affairs, is due to arrive in Los Angeles July 1 and he will at that time take up the work of establishing the school and making preparations for the work that is to be done under his direction.

Will Have Six Assistants
Dr. Webber will be assisted in his research and experiment work by six of the most able assistants that he can procure from the different colleges and experiment stations in the United States. Dean Hunt made the announcement that these six men will begin work in the school as quickly as it is opened and that their number will be increased as the demand requires.

From other sources yesterday it was learned that Dr. Webber will in all probability bring with him experts who have long been in the citrus study of the government. It was known yesterday that he recently had been in Washington and that he had held numerous conferences with experts of the department of agriculture and it is expected that some of these experts will come with him to the California experiment station.

Strong bids are being made for the station by several sections of the citrus belt. Among the cities that are making an effort to secure the school and experiment station are Whittier, Santa Ana, Pomona, San Dimas, Riverside, Redlands and San Bernardino.

Sections Will Be Tested
All of these sections will be visited by Dr. Webber and soil tests made before he announces the location of the institution.

Citrus men yesterday who discussed the matter of a site for the school declared that they had no special choice in the matter and that they would make no recommendation for a site selected further than to suggest that a section with a diversity of soil qualities be selected.

By the appropriation signed by Governor Johnson the school will be allowed $60,000 for the purchase of 200 acres of land, $100,000 with which to build and equip the laboratories, and $25,000 with which to construct the other necessary buildings.—Los Angeles Tribune.

JEWS CONVENED IN NATIONAL MEET

Will Discuss Vital Topics, Including Russian Persecution and Palestine University

CINCINNATI, June 21.—The need of a Jewish university in Palestine was the most important question which came up today before the opening session of the sixteenth annual convention of the Federation of American Zionists which opened this morning. This year's convention is considered the most important ever held by the Zionists because of the number of vital topics to be considered. Among these is the matter of demanding that the United States compel a more lenient attitude by Russian government officials toward the persecuted Jews of that country. It was argued today that the establishment of a Jewish University at Palestine will give to the young Jews of Russia, who are barred from universities there because of their religion and nationality, a place to educate themselves. The recent visit of Nahum Sokalan in this country was declared to have greatly strengthened the Zionist movement in America.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES AT COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS

Ending a most successful commencement week, the members of the graduating class of the Santa Ana High School last night received their diplomas. There were seventy diplomas, given out to as many pupils, a fine looking class, one of high character and ability.

After the church was filled with friends and relatives of the graduates, the class marched in two lines of pretty girls dressed in white from the left and two lines of handsome young men from the right, and took their places on the platform.

The evening differed from many other commencements in the character of the program, but none could have been more acceptable than last night's. Three readings and two piano solos, artistically executed by members of the class, and a number of songs by a Los Angeles quartet composed of E. C. Hayton, A. C. Maccurda, A. Rae Condit and E. J. Ruenitz, made up a large share of the program.

On the platform seated in front of the class were the members of the board of education and those aside from members of the class who took part in the evening's affair.

Rev. C. H. Seccombe of Los Angeles, formerly of Santa Ana, whose daughter was among the graduates, delivered an invocation, beautifully worded. Following Dudley Buck's "On the Sea" by the quartet, which was encored upon every appearance—than which no truer appreciation could be expected—came the first number by a graduate. It was Miss Elsie Wingood who read entertainingly "Higher Culture in Dixie." The negro dialect in this amusing selection was given by Miss Wingood in a manner to emphasize her versatility to those who had heard her in the class play, where she had the role of the haughtiest of haughty dames of high degree.

Two other readings were on the program, both given with artistic touches and a grace in oral expression highly pleasing to the hearers. Miss Hester Robinson gave "Soldier of Fortune," which differed from the readings of Miss Wingood and Miss Georgia Smith in that it was dramatic while theirs were meant to and did produce volumes of laughter. Miss Smith recited "The Abandoned Elopement," the varying emotions of which she depicted with splendid success.

The two piano solos, one by Miss Dorothy Seccombe, who played "Shepherds All and Maiden Fair," and one by Miss Helen Welles, who played Paderewski's "Minuet," were executed in a very pleasing manner. Both musicians displayed a mastery of technique and touch that was well worthy of the applause that the numbers were given.

W. A. Zimmermann as a representative of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, announced the awards made of prizes in a contest carried on among the high school pupils. The contest was in the writing of essays upon "Santa Ana as a Home Town." The speaker said the idea was to get good essays upon Santa Ana to be used for advertising purposes. Three prizes were offered, the first being $15, second $10 and third $5. All three prizes were won by boys, two by juniors of the high school and the third by a senior. The winners—first, Frank Blake; second, Stanley Mansur; and third, Chauncey Pond—were handed their prizes last night. The judging was done by Rev. W. L. C. Samson, Rev. O. S. Russell and E. M. Nealley.

With Miss Winifred Husser leading, the class arose and sang its class song, a tuneful number.

The class was presented by Prinicipal E. H. McMath, who stated that the class had made an excellent record.

"As freshmen this class numbered 112," said he. "Tonight there are seventy graduating. That is, sixty per cent of those entering go through the high school. With the February and June classes, the grammar schools this year turned out 180 graduates. This class tonight numbers forty per cent of that number. That is eight times the percentage that statistics show to be the average. For some reason, Santa Ana graduates eight times as many scholars in proportion to those leaving the grammar schools as is the average."

Principal McMath said that he desired to mention for special honors two of the students as having attained the highest average marks in their class during their high school career. He said Miss Elsie Segerstrom had a magnificent record. Miss Sophie Hardy had an even better record, and besides had taken part in oratorical contests, winning first and second places in the Southern California league, for Santa Ana.

W. L. Duggan, president of the school board, presented the diplomas. He said that a new era in Santa Ana school activities will be begun next September when the new high school opens. As each name was called, the graduate came forward and received the diploma.

Malcom Tedford led the class in singing the high school song, and Rev. Staff of the First Congregational Church delivered the benediction.

The exercises were held in the First Methodist Church for the use of which the school authorities extend their thanks.

The members of the class will attend the Santa Ana High School Alumni reunion at the high school tonight.

Shares Going Up Never to Come Down

The price of MAHOMET shares advances July 1st.

After that date, IF THERE ARE ANY SHARES UNSOLD, the price will be AT LEAST 25 cents per share.

The advance in price, while MORE THAN JUSTIFIED, is not so important as the fact that THERE MAY BE NO MORE SHARES FOR SALE.

The total capital stock of this company is only $200,000.00, divided into 1,000,000 shares.

Of this number, AT THIS DATE, there are FULLY 750,000 SHARES SUBSCRIBED, and LESS THAN 100,000 SHARES NOW OFFERED.

This means that the company is nearly financed, and that a magnificent opportunity, made possible by a great World's Fair, is about to be closed to you.

There are sure to be demands for these shares after the supply is exhausted, because of the nature of this enterprise.

Our capital must be limited, because we are organized for a fixed purpose, and cannot use funds in excess of the amount that will be realized by the sale of the present number of shares.

The profits we expect are enormous, and it would not be possible to put an unlimited sum of money to work so profitably.

Two weeks ago we had in Santa Ana less than a dozen shareholders. TODAY WE HAVE OVER ONE HUNDRED.

This magnificent record of results would not be possible unless we had a proposition of great merit.

Those who did not agree with us at first are now our heaviest investors, and our most enthusiastic ones.

Nothing but sound merit enables us to tell you that our list of shareholders now embraces Presidents of National Banks, astute attorneys, and level-headed business men.

Come down and see the magnificent painting on exhibition, and get the FACTS.

The millions who visit a World's Fair DEMAND to be amused, and this corporation will build the one great dominating attraction of the coming Exposition.

The Directors of this company pledge you that they have absolute control, AND WILL KEEP IT. This is the reason the Bankers and Lawyers have invested, on exactly the same basis you are asked to do.

This is the reason you are assured of a PROMPT and EQUAL distribution of all sums earned, whether you purchase 100 shares, costing $1.00 monthly, or 10,000 shares, costing $100.00 monthly. Pay all cash, as many are doing, and save five (5) per cent.

COME DOWN TONIGHT. You will not be urged to invest, unless you express a desire to do so.

This is the greatest opportunity of modern times, made possible only by the coming of the greatest Fair in history. When the Fair has come and gone, the opportunity vanishes with it.

GARDEN GROVE SUGAR BEETS

Estimated 1500 Acres in That Section—Chile Pepper
Crop

GARDEN GROVE, June 21.—It is estimated that there are 1500 acres of sugar beets within this voting precinct, which means within a radius of a mile and a half of the Garden Grove postoffice. These beets are all tributary to this shipping dump located along the Pacific Electric Railroad. The greatest distance to any field included in this estimate is a mile and a half. Estimating twelve tons to the acre here the crop is 18,000 tons, which has a value of $126,000.

Probably the largest single acreage in the chili peppers here is on the Frank Mills ranch, where there is 120 acres in this one product. This is something like one-fourth of the entire acreage in this vicinity devoted to the "hot crop." Estimating that each acre produces ten tons of green peppers, and call the total area only 400 acres, the crop would be 400 tons which is shipped from this point. A large amount of the crop is dried.

Among the ranch improvements reported near Garden Grove are twenty acres of oranges to go out on the Russell place, forty acres on the Wells ranch, five acres of alfalfa on the Swayze ranch, and six acres of the same product on the Long ranch.

CO-OPERATIVE METHODS TO BE TRIED BY SALIX FARMERS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 21.—Salix farmers here are planning to try co-operative methods that by the use of co-operative methods the profits of their farms could be greatly increased, farmers of Adams township, one of the most picturesque agricultural sections in the Allegheny mountains, today are working out the details of forming a co-operative corporation which will practically give every acre of land in that section.

It was while a number of the husky mountaineers were discussing current topics in the village grocery store at Salix, one evening not long ago, that the proposition was first suggested. That the co-operative system had been a money-maker in other states was pointed out. Fruit growers of the Pacific states have a "trust," cotton growers have an organization in the south and in the New England and Middle Atlantic states, the powerful organizations of the poultry dealers and truck gardeners have flourished for many years. These facts were the principal topics of discussion in the village store for weeks. Other farmers were approached and the plan explained to them. It was an immediate "hit," and now it is learned that within a short time steps will be taken to effect a permanent organization.

The plan of the Salix farmers is to form a corporation in which all the farms in this section will be worked on the co-operative plan. Every farmer will be a stockholder in the company. He will oversee the work on his own farm, care for his own crops, and when the harvest season has arrived his farm will be visited by directors or agents of the association, who later will take charge of the produce and its sale. The farmer will get his share of the profits when the dividend is declared.

The association will elect a board of directors. It is said that practically every prominent farmer in that section will become a stockholder in the new association.

Higher prices for butter, eggs and other farm produce are paid in this part of Pennsylvania than are paid in New York city. The land is fairly fertile in the valleys, but there is always a shortage of produce, and the best of prices are received for garden truck, butter and eggs. Owing to the limited acreage of tillable soil, and the rapidly increasing population, prices are expected to go even higher.

This year, due in a great measure to the frosts, there promises to be an even more serious shortage, and it is expected that prices will again soar before the summer is many days old.

The farmers of Adams township are agreed that the sooner the association is formed and put into operation, the better it will be for them. They hope to be able to set their own prices for green goods and dairy products this year.

The association will have charge of the sale of all the farm and dairy produce, as well as of chickens and other poultry. This section produces a large amount of the food consumed by Cambria county's many large and growing coal, steel and railroad towns. Much of the produce also is sent into Somerset county, where large coal companies are operating.

The State Grange and its branches have long been advocating the co-operative plan. In a number of sections in this part of the state, co-operative stores are being planned. It is said that Salix also will have a co-operative store which will place practically the entire business of the little town in the hands of a corporation. It is said that the grange idea of a co-operative system, which has been discussed here by local farmers for more than a year, is responsible in a large measure for the inception of the co-operative farming scheme.

WOMEN'S FADS AND FANCIES

By Margaret Mason

NEW YORK, June 20.—If you want to be an ocean swell, a bathing suit that is nautical but also is most appropriately built of sea blue moire. This watered silk lends itself with charming aptitude to a dip in the briny. With a sailor collar of white moire, a slightly bloused waist and short sleeves cuffed in the white the distinctive feature of this little bathing suit is its pleated skirt. For a too slender figure, whose angularity is often overexposed at the shore, this pleated skirt model is an ample disguise. Another smart moire bath frock is of cool, slate gray, its monotone being relieved by a wide cash and collar of old blue silk polka dotted in cream.

The bathing cap to match is shaped like a Quaker cap with a turn-back cuff of the polka dotted trimming framing the face. Bathing sandals and hose of gray complete an outfit fit to lure old Neptune from the depths.

For a bazon rather a blue and green striped taffeta bathing suit with jade disks straight from the Y shaped throat to the knee length hem gives a good long line. A little collar of blue lace outlines the neck and the sleeves are long, proclaiming the triumph of "style" over comfort.

Satin, moire, polka, taffeta, moire, satin and moire silk are all popular materials for the bathing suit in a mode. Now the craze for silk crepe has ever broken into the water. Perfectly stunning costumes for the surf are constructed of this clinging fabric. One of a soft, rousing shade is made with a Russian blouse and a collar, cuffs and wide belt of glowing Bulgarian embroidery.

The black bathing suit is a perennial favorite. Livened with touches of white it is always smart. A model that turns its wearer into a veritable silhouette is of black tussor with a tiny vest and byronic collar of white bengaline. An original black polka is cut with a bodice with the front of black and white plaid taffeta and the collar, cuffs and skirt checked up the same.

Though the bathing suits refrain from a too pronounced riot of color, the bathing trunks this season run the gamut of vivid brilliancy. Cunning all-rounder caps come in every bright hue and shape and the silk covered ones are polka dotted and treated with cabot dye and designs. Old Ocean's beaming bosom will seem to be sported a bouquet of hot home-blossoms when these dainty, bright caps top the white caps. While most of the cap models conform to the regulation Dutch cap, tan and turban shapes there is for the modern mermaid a new small brimmed hat of waterproof silk stitched like the little silk and linen hats for dry land sports. It is handied in a scarf of puterist tendency.

"Getty the belle of the bathers" in lieu of being in her trophy belt of scales this season sports buttons on her bathing suit instead. Her divers buttons are called upon for a pearl button, coral encrusted with the respective monogram of the donor. Thus she is enabled to keep her affections and her bathing suit well buttoned all at the same time. What a record of shattered hearts to find their way eventually into the button bag of discard.

It seems indeed a pity that the French custom of bathing sans shirt should be taboo over here. The simple jersey and trunks of the Parisian mermaids are much more chic and sensible for sporting in the waves than all the excess of fashion the American water nymph piles on. Rather the American leather robes her self for a sand and sun bath than an aquatic one. Too often her fetching attire will bear no closer proximity to the wet than a stroll along the sand. 'Tis a sad fact that most of the smartest bathing suits will not bear bathing at all.

COUNTY Y. M. C. A. WORK

BY PROF. G. WALTER FISKE, OBERLIN, OHIO.

First—It is a man's movement, or ignited and promoted by laymen and winning the cooperation of laymen in a remarkable degree.

Secondly—It is a country-wide movement. Just as the country is the most uniform of all our political units geographically, and is a very important unit socially and industrially, likewise it is strategic policy to plan moral and religious work on the county basis. The principle of consolidation of schools, within township limits, has already passed those limits, and we find splendid county high schools in rural counties taking the place of small, ineffective township high schools. The Young Men's Christian Association has discovered that it is a wise policy to consider the county as a unit for religious and moral endeavor also, particularly in the rural sections, and their "County Work" is based on this idea.

Thirdly—It is a business-like movement. One of the first principles of modern business, with its splendid efficiency, is the elimination of waste and the utilization of by-products. We have discovered that the greatest and most serious waste in modern life is boy waste. We have been reasonably satisfied if not more than half our boys go to the devil. The County Work idea insists that it is not necessary for the country boy to "grow his wild oats," that he can be saved for good Christian citizenship and a clean, strong life. And in a thoroughly business-like way, the keen men who are back of this movement go to the problem, discovering the moral resources of the county and using them all for the benefit of rural and village manhood. It is a good business.

Fourthly—It is a scientific movement. That is, it is inductive, based on right principles, which have been derived from careful investigation of country life, and thorough experimentation for twenty years and more. Its first working principle is: Personality counts for more than equipment. Unlike Association work in the city, the County Work believes in a maximum of personality and a minimum of equipment. It seldom builds buildings or gymnasiums. It puts its money mostly into trained personality, concentrated experts in country life and boy life. It is the best possible investment. Another sensible principle worked out from experience is this: Work for boys merely weakens. Work with boys strengthens. Someone has said, "There is as much difference between work for boys and boys' work as there is between a bath sponge and a sponge bath!" The county secretaries train their leaders not to coddle the boys, but to encourage the boys to self-expression, self-activity and initiative; and this is what develops manhood.

Again, still another important principle underlying all the County Work of the Young Men's Christian Association is this: The redemptive forces of a community must be the resident forces. You can not save China by foreigners. Experts American missionaries in China can only educate, train and develop local leaders. China must be saved ultimately by consecrated Christian Chinese. Boys must be saved by boys who have had their own ideals and visions inspired by right leadership. The rural villages must be socially redeemed, not by outside people, not by the forces of the city, but by the forces at home, developing the moral forces already resident there, using the powers at hand.

This requires the closest kind of study of rural conditions; and this the County Work leaders have done and are constantly doing. The country life movement in this country the past two decades is a marvelous thing. Parallel with the wonderful growth of cities and the richness of city life, there has been a rapid development of the country districts. Never was country life so attractive as now, never the opportunities for the country boy so promising. With modern scientific farming, equipped with wonderful machinery and accurate knowledge of soils and chemical processes, with intensive agriculture, dry farming, irrigation, etc., the time has come when the country boy, on a fairly good farm, simply can not afford to go to the city to spend his years as a poorly paid clerk. He can do better at home in his own environment. Now it is very significant that the men who are leaders in the nation-wide country life movement, such as Bailey of Cornell, and Butterfield of Massachusetts (grandson of President Roosevelt), are the very men who are back of this County Work idea of the Association, and constantly called in for consultation and expert advice. It is such men that are training the country secretaries and fitting them for their task; this means hope for the country boy, and hope for the country.

What then is the task? Nothing more or less than the all-round development of the country boy and young man in the villages and the rural sections of the land. In scores of counties in many states, the young men are getting the same fine development in physique, in mind and in character as the city boys are getting under Association leadership. This means a variety of activities and a very broad plan. It means not merely physical exercise, but higher physical ideals for the care of the body and the reverence for the person. It means mental development, stimulated by all sorts of club and group work, evening classes, vocational and practical plans for the enriching of country life where it is poorest, ministering to the social hunger of the country boy with wholesome recreation and developing his social graces, the lack of which makes him so painfully awkward and self-conscious. But especially, the plan includes a variety of religious work of a sensible, manly and practical type, groups for independent Bible study, often meeting in some farm kitchen on a week-night, union religious meetings with specific aims, sensible evangelism, mainly conducted quietly in personal work. The constant endeavor, it should always be remembered, is to work in harmony with the churches and in cooperation with their pastors. In fact, this County Work movement offers the finest kind of leverage on the county church problem. It brings rural, compelling, jealous churches together to work for a common cause, under a leader who is unbiased and yet tremendously in earnest.

The county secretary is usually the fittest type of the college man, often not only a college graduate, but also a man with some special training. He is a man who loves country life and believes in the country, and has great faith in the immediate future of the rural districts. He is usually a man of large capacity for leadership, with a broad knowledge of human nature, and a fine friendliness, as well as an earnest Christian purpose and a great longing to help the country boys and young men to well developed Christian manhood.

This County Association Work is no experiment. It is widely successful in many states and is conducted by the International Committee on scientifically sound principles which are based on a close study of rural sociology and have been tried out, through years of patient endeavor, by well-trained men who are specialists in their field. It is perhaps the most promising just now of all the various lines of Association work and it certainly is as much needed as any branch of the city work.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET

Large shipments of cantaloupes and a marked decline in prices are expected next week.

Watermelons were received from Imperial Valley yesterday, this being about the first shipment from that section for the season. There is also a good supply of Mexican melons. Black and white figs were in evidence. The supply of cherries was fair. Gooseberries are not very plentiful. The supply of currants was pretty good and prices showed declining tendencies, probably owing to the fact that some dealers were a little overstocked. Strawberries were a shade earlier. The supply of other kinds of berries was fair. The fruit season has settled down to a steady swing and large receipts may be expected from now on. With the exception of peaches, grapes, and probably figs, crops promise to be rather short this season, and prices may not be as low as usual.

The vegetable market is well stocked in the instance of most fresh lines. The market was overloaded with beans. Local tomatoes were received in small quantities and sold cheaper than Imperial stock because of their rather poor appearance. Some dealers think that the quantity of the vegetable may not be as good as usual this season. Cucumbers are in good supply. A small quantity of asparagus remains. Good receipts of corn are had. New potatoes were firm and Oregon potatoes, the only old stock on the market, brought a good price. Dry chile is very scarce.

Tustin School Graduates Heard in Fine Orations in Out-Door Commencement

The closing exercises of the Tustin school last Saturday night on the lawn was a grand success. The night was a delightfully pleasant one, but even if it had been cooler the girls in their finest white dresses were well protected from the night breeze by a canopy stage, which was tastefully decorated with palms, greenery, flowers and flags, and lighted with electric lights.

There was a rush of business on the lawn Friday and Saturday while the stage was being built and seats in front of the stage to accommodate nearly everybody in Tustin. The space was strung with lights in Japanese lanterns. As the twilight waned and the time drew near, carriages and automobiles began to arrive, finally filling the space nearly around the square. Things presented quite a different appearance and must have been very pleasing and gratifying to the young boys and girls who were graduating from their grammar school.

The program commenced with the girls' chorus and the invocation by Rev. E. W. Blew. The salutatory was given by Lola Robinson, and was pronounced fine by everyone. No less interesting, and filled with incidents which brought back the school days of all the grown-ups, was the class history by Wilhelmina Bennett. Coming as it did between the essays, Gladys Stearns' instrumental solo was highly appreciated.

The paper by Lee Brown on beet culture and the making of sugar was a complete history of the industry, beginning with the preparation of the soil before the seed is sown, the process was given down to the finished product—granulated sugar—and the sale of it, also mentioning the percentage of profit for the miller. The class poem by Rowena Coffie gave promise of poetical talent in the class of 1913. The class will be read by Raymond Metz. The making of a will always has a note of sadness in it, but when life is young and there is so much ahead, books and desks and even school gardens are gladly bequeathed.

Next came a very pretty trio sung by Gladys Stearns, Jessie Rawlings and Ethel Klatt.

Class prophecies are always interesting, but of course there never was one just like this to those mentioned in it, by Alice Saunby. Tustin and its people were given a mighty boost in her vivid imagination.

The valedictory by Mildred Marchant was the consummation of the program and was a splendid paper for this class of grammar school graduates. A chorus, tribute to the month of June, was sung by the girls of the class.

The numbers on the program were called by Dorothy Utt, who was class president.

In a short address Mr. Langworthy said his was an unusual class on account of the general high average and the fact that it was almost impossible to give a fractional difference between four or five of the best pupils. He regretted that it was not possible to deliver the diplomas on that night. They had been so newly printed that they were not sufficiently dry to handle.

Funeral of Mr. U. C. Holderman
The funeral services of U. C. Holderman were held at Smith's chapel, Santa Ana, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. Holderman was an old resident of Tustin, having lived on Laguna avenue for about twenty years. Several years ago he met with an accident in which he was thrown from a buggy. He never fully recovered from the injury, which eventually caused paralysis. For weeks he had been a constant sufferer until the time of his death last Friday.

Mr. Holderman was a member of the G. A. R. and the funeral was conducted under the auspices of the Santa Ana post. About sixty members were present and quite a large number of the relief corps. The funeral was delayed several days in order to have Rev. Butterfield, a former pastor of the Presbyterian church, preside at the funeral, but he found it impossible to come and Rev. J. A. Stevenson, First Presbyterian church, Santa Ana, conducted the services.

The pall bearers were H. E. Smith, G. P. Lawrence, J. H. Brown of Santa Ana, T. H. Smith, Louis Hillard and H. W. Smith of Tustin. Mr. Holderman leaves a widow and six children: Mrs. J. C. Lamb and Mrs. Lida Coker of Santa Ana, Myron Holderman of Elsinore, N. A. Holderman and Grant Holderman of Tustin; also one daughter in Omaha, Neb.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSE IS NOW ASSURED

Everybody knows by this time that Tustin is going to have a new school house, but the Tustin correspondence would be incomplete this week without some mention of it. The plans have not progressed far enough as yet for anything definite to be said regarding them, but work will be started as quickly as possible on the new building.

Orchard Heaters
The demonstration of orchard heaters held last Friday evening on the grounds of the Tustin Lemon and Orange Association was of vital interest to the citrus fruit growers. The meeting was attended by practically all in the district who are in the business. Twenty-three different heaters were demonstrated, the results having been reported in yesterday's Register.

CLASS BANQUET WAS BIG SUCCESS

Aikam Class Invited Friends to Join Them in Social Event This Week

The Aikam Sunday school class held a banquet at the church Wednesday night and it was an exceedingly enjoyable event to all the young people who attended and also to the older ones who were fortunate enough to receive an invitation.

They sat down to an inviting table spread with tamales, pie, coffee, pickles, salad, cake and ice cream. Each lady had a gentleman guest. There were about thirty present and each one was supposed to do his or her share of entertaining in a short after-dinner speech.

The members of the class are Mrs. Sharpless, teacher, Mrs. Chas. Willard alternate teacher; Misses Etta Crawford, Edith Stearns, Lena Ebel, Alice Matthews, Edith Rawlings, Winnie Crawford, Crittie Young, Viola Nelson, Nellie Place, Ora Young, Blanch Prunty, Ethel Alderman and Mesdames Porter, Luther, John Keiser, Harry Kendrick, Franklin Griesel, Claude Martin, Wm. McLaughlin, Fred Currier, E. W. Blew and Floyd Turner. All but one or two were present Wednesday night with their escorts, and everybody went in for a good time.

After the banquet was over they all repaired to the home of Mrs. Willard where the good time was continued with games and music.

Evangelistic Meetings

Last Sunday night a joint meeting of the Presbyterian and Advent Christian church congregations was held on the schoolhouse lawn, where the school exercises had been held the night before. Splendid interest was shown and the two pastors, Rev. R. B. Shannon and Rev. E. W. Blew, decided to continue evangelistic services during the week. There has been a very good attendance at each meeting but owing to the cool nights they will be held at the Advent Christian church the latter part of the week.

MISSION WOMEN HELD GOOD MEET

Interesting Program on Foreign Field Work; Guests Present From Los Angeles

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church met Thursday afternoon at the church. After the opening exercises there was the usual roll call, reading of minutes and treasurer's report.

A letter was read by Mrs. Pollard, giving some information about the room to be furnished by the Tustin Society in the new Spanish school in Los Angeles. This was followed by a beautiful piano solo by Miss Gertrude Utt.

The subject for study was the Japanese, Chinese and Koreans, Mrs. P. H. Ebel leader, who read some very educational references showing the attitude of the American people to these foreigners and suggestions as to ways of helping them from a Christian standpoint. Some scripture references were given to different ones present to read, and these were very striking and impressive as to a Christian's plain duty to the foreigner.

Miss Mitchell of Santa Ana and Miss Wood of Los Angeles, were guests of the meeting and were asked to address the meeting, to which they both responded, Miss Wood giving an interesting story which she called "The Beautiful Life."

SOCIETY AND CLUBS

Christian Endeavor Social

The Christian Endeavor Social will be held next Wednesday night at the Logan home. All the young people of the church and all who are interested in the society are invited to attend.

Meeting of the Socialist Local

In holding the local meeting Wednesday night at K. P. Hall, some of the members expressed a regret that Stanley B. Wilson of Los Angeles should have been invited to speak while the meetings in the church were being held, for while some in the local do not regularly attend church services there are others who do.

Mr. Wilson gave a plain and unbiased view, from the Socialist's standpoint, of what the economic conditions ought to be. He called the attention of his audience to the fact that the columns of the papers are now filled with the tragic side of life. From his viewpoint, the cause of this is the system, or want of system, in the vital relations of life. The key note of his talk was that some good people say Socialism would destroy the home, but nothing is farther from the truth. He does not expect to see the day—but some of the young boys would live to see it—when a young man and his bride-to-be, going to get their marriage license, would receive a deed to their new home. But let the young man understand that he is to go his part by the public, give a certain amount of labor according to his talents. In case he does not do his part, the home will revert back to the public.

The meeting Wednesday night was well attended. There was a number of representative people there.

Misses Mabel Logan and Jessie Matthews were the leaders. It was rather an impromptu meeting so far as the program was concerned, but after a short business session, they all proceeded to have a good time.

The refreshments of fruitade and cake were in the nature of a surprise, as they are not always served at these meetings. When the time came to leave, the last one was tucked into an automobile and no one was left to walk home.

Class Party

Miss Mildred Marchant entertained the grammar school graduating class of 1913 last Tuesday night. Many amusing games were played. The source of much merriment was a guessing contest. They were asked to guess the weight of Mr. Marchant; second, how many leaves in a book; third, length of a broom; four, how many beans in a glass. The first prize, a little toy-poly, was won by Dorothy Utt, was a neatly wrapped box which proved to be somewhat disappointing when unwrapped.

The decorations were in the class colors, pink and white, which was carried out in pink rose napkins, and in the pink and white brick ice cream and cake. Crystallized walnuts were also served. The game, "I have a letter to send to Boston," was great sport and the music was also enjoyable.
